The color separation filter is used for suppressing color moire or color mixing in which, for example, red (R) light-colored objects are mixed with green (G) light-colored objects. The aforementioned color separation filter is designed to have a long optical path, so that it is required to have a thickness of a few tens of μm . The color separation filter also requires a high color-resolution performance due to the color separation performance. In a case where the color separation filter is used in a digital camera, the performance required is the ability of separating different colors by about 1.5 to 2 times the number of pixels of the image pickup element. For example, Patent Document 1 discloses an interference filter which is used as a color separation filter of an image pickup element. In

As you can see I am very strict about integrity, truth, accuracy and transparency. Now that I have been a full time network marketer for over 5 years now I know what works and what doesn't. In this blog I will be explaining why these methods do or don't work. I understand from my years of experience that each client and prospect is unique and has its own set of needs. The more I look at the web the more I understand that this is true. I've worked with so many individuals, companies and industries in these past 5 years that I have been blogging. One of my favorite quotes is... "Leaders may learn by experience, but most have to learn by going through experiences." To Create A Vision, You MUST Be Dreaming... About Me Corey is an entrepreneur, speaker, mentor and the creator of Thrive Retreats. Over the past five years he has had the opportunity to work with thousands of people from all walks of life and has learned a lot about what works and what doesn't in marketing and sales. He believes that having a clear
