The English patch can be found here: Q: Column Count for Multitenant Database I've been searching for a solution to the multi-tenant database issue, where when I have multiple databases each of them should have different column count. I've only found partial solutions and most of them seem to be 10 years old. So is there a good way to do this today? A: Microsoft SQL

Server has a DB_NAME() function that can be used to get the name of the current database. You can then use a CASE statement to dynamically change the column count. Here's a sample: select * from myTable where db_name() in ('Test1','Test2') SQL Server also has DB_NAME() in the CREATE TABLE statement, so you can make a column count change before creating the table. CREATE TABLE t1 (c1 INT) select * from myTable where db_name() in ('Test1','Test2') ALTER TABLE t1 ADD c2 INT select * from myTable where db_name() in ('Test1','Test2') 1.
