

---

ayurveda therapy sutras

Category:Malayalam-language books Category:Malayalam literary magazines

Category:Collections of booksRenal tubular reabsorption of hippuric acid is inhibited in rats with bile-duct ligation. The transport of hippuric acid (HA) and the influence of bile-duct ligation on renal tubular reabsorption of HA were studied in the rat. HA was found to be reabsorbed in the proximal tubules, as judged by high concentrations of HA in the urine. Bile-duct ligation resulted in a higher urinary excretion of HA (8.2 +/- 1.7 vs. 6.3 +/- 1.4

---

mg/h/100 g body weight; p , they do not receive any extra value.

The inclusion of all these personal services in the same training provides a clear view of the whole process of providing these services to the client.

Especially, the observation of the interviewees that clients are willing to pay extra if the service is included in the training indicates the significance of personal services in the preparation of MTs. MTs are limited to financial literacy training, as they believe that their personal services will be an attraction to potential clients and will increase the credibility of the centre. The observation of the interviewees shows that if clients see that the centre is providing the whole process of training, it will increase the opportunity to ask for the desired service. 6. Conclusions and recommendations {#sec1-6} =====

---

===== The findings of this study showed that providing training programs should be prepared as a professional way of work, which should be provided by personnel who can fulfil the objectives of the program.

However, MTs have some obstacles in carrying out the activities that are taught during the training programs. Some of these obstacles were lack of financial literacy, time limitation, and personal services. One of the suggestions for addressing these obstacles was to improve the financial literacy of MTs. This will be achieved if all financial advisors train the clients in the needs of financial literacy.

---

Another recommendation is to provide a reasonable amount of time for training. This will be 2d92ce491b