Some search engines block searches for certain terms or limit searches to certain countries. If the search is blocked, there is a link at the top right of the search form to change the country.Q: How do I make an HTML Web page ignore that a folder or file already exists? In Windows 7, when I create a Web page and save it as a local html file, it actually replaces the existing page and saves it as a new file. I would like it to display the existing one without overwriting it. How do I get it to just let me have my local html file? A: Use a version control system to help avoid this. Either use a build system that runs a script on the filesystem to check for any changes to files, or use a revision control system. If you are working in a local environment, I'd also encourage you to use a local (or as close as possible) server. Deploy via FTP, or set up an Apache virtual host. Use a build system to build and deploy as part of your build process. The chances are you are using a development server anyway, so by the time you are ready to publish you will have used version control anyway. (1) Field of the Invention The invention relates to a field of treating wear problems in metallic railway rails and to a method of treating the problem. (2) Description of the Prior Art Metallic rails have been used in railway systems for many years. Over long distances the metallic rails tend to succumb to wearing by the wheels and other components of the rail systems. It has been recognized that prior art rail and metal wear problems can be minimized by coating the metal rails with an abrasive resistant coating prior to entering service. Some railroads have spent millions of dollars in applying such metal coatings to railway rails. The procedure is expensive but effective in preserving the life of the railway rails. In addition, some railroads have resorted to treating the rails when they
