COM Explorer is a unique tool specifically designed to enable developers and system administrators to explore, manage and fix ActiveX Controls, EXE Servers (Out-Proc) and DLL Servers (In-Proc). An Explorer like GUI allows developers to browse registered COM objects and view information such as GUID, TypeLib, version information, dependency information, file information and more. COM Explorer clearly marks misbehaved objects, such as those with missing files left as junk in the registry. A Registry editor is fully integrated allowing to view and edit COM settings. COM Explorer is integrated into Windows Explorer enabling to quickly register, unregister and view COM Controls using a pop-up menu. COM Explorer substantially reduces the complexity of identifying COM related problems developers and system administrators face every day. Here are some key features of "COM Explorer":  Provides a complete picture of the state of a computer as far as ActiveX Controls, DLL Servers and EXE Servers.  An Explorer view that includes all COM objects and their attributes helps to quickly identify problems like DLL version mismatch and other common COM

COM Explorer Keygen For (LifeTime) Download (2022)

KEYMACRO is a small utility which allows you to create additional hot keys in Windows. Just copy the KEYMACRO.INI file to your My Computer folder and install the program. When the program is launched, a dialog will be displayed asking where you want to install the Keymacro hot key. Once you have chosen an installation location, the hot key will be installed and you will be asked if you want to check it to make sure everything is ok. Why use it: Keymacro has been designed to allow easy hot key creation by anyone. It can be used to create standard hot keys, or to map any other shortcut into any key you have defined. This can be useful for quick access to all the functions of the program, and also for automating some tasks. You can create an infinite number of hot keys, and the ability to create shortcuts of any other hot key, even those which are already used, is a great convenience. Keymacro allows you to create hot keys for any windows system file, including Windows application or Window. At the moment Keymacro only works on the Microsoft Windows operating systems, but it is possible to have hot key's created for different operating systems, allowing you to use it on a variety of different machines. To use the Keymacro hot key feature, you will first have to create a hot key with the Keymacro utility. Just follow the instructions on the help screen or on the screen after launching the Keymacro. To allow you to have a quick access to the hot keys you have created, you can use Keymacro to register the hot keys as a Start Menu item. For Windows NT, 2000 and XP, register the hot keys from the Computer/CMD tab in Start Menu/Control Panel. For Windows ME and 2003 you can use the Programs/Programs and Features tab. This can be very useful for quick access to all the functions of the program, and also for automating some tasks. If you want to set a hot key for an external application, it is possible to use a hot key of another program, because all the windows systems allow the execution of a command that is not associated with a specific application. You can easily create a hot key in another program, and save the hot key's text in a file. Then, when the hot key is created, you will have the choice to run the command that was saved in the file, or 77a5ca646e
